June 25, 2013

Paul Belval and Andrew Bobenski Discuss New MA Solar Energy Proposals in Law360

Paul Belval and Andrew Bobenski discuss the ramifications of new Massachusetts solar energy proposals in a June 25 article for Law360. The proposals address the MW Solar Carve-Out cap which was reached sooner than anticipated, and with a post-400 MW incentive regime that aims to get the state to 1600 MW of solar energy in coming years. Paul and Andrew write: "Unprecedented growth within the Massachusetts solar market results in increased deployment goals as well as a near constant state of flux for the marketplace. Solar developers, lenders, borrowers and other solar industry stakeholders must keep abreast of these latest developments to be best well-positioned to benefit from these developments and avoid any potential pitfalls."

The full article can be found here.

Authors

Paul N. Belval
Partner

Hartford, CT | (860) 275-0381

pnbelval@daypitney.com