Boston Attorney Eric Kaviar Expands Day Pitney Intellectual Property Practice

Day Pitney LLP welcomes Eric G.J. Kaviar as Counsel in its Intellectual Property and Technology practice. The addition of Kaviar, who will be based in the firm's Boston office, follows the recent arrival of New York Counsel Claire Gibson, further reflecting the firm's ongoing commitment to strengthening and expanding its Intellectual Property practice.

"Eric's arrival represents an exciting milestone for our team, strengthening our presence in Boston and broadening our capabilities within the practice," said Carrie Webb Olson, chair of Day Pitney's Intellectual Property and Technology practice group. "His deep experience and track record of success in managing intricate intellectual property challenges will enhance our team's continued delivery of swift and sophisticated results in a myriad of environment and contentious matters involving IP."

At Day Pitney, Kaviar's practice will focus on intellectual property litigation, including patent disputes, trademark disputes, trade secret cases, and strategic intellectual property counseling. He will also advise clients on managing and protecting their intellectual property portfolios, helping Day Pitney meet the evolving needs of its clients in technology-driven industries.

With more than 17 years of experience in the legal profession, Kaviar focuses on litigation from pre-filing investigations through trial and appeal, including proceedings before the International Trade Commission. He has litigated cases involving technologies such as video gaming, voice over internet protocol (VoIP), content delivery networks, electrophoretic displays, optical equipment, point-of-sale devices, medical devices, and software. Before joining the firm, Kaviar held partner positions at two leading law firms, managing complex intellectual property matters and representing clients in advanced technology cases.

Kaviar has been recognized by The Best Lawyers in America® (click here for The Best Lawyers in America methodology), Massachusetts Super Lawyers® (click here for Massachusetts Super Lawyers methodology), and Massachusetts Rising Stars (click here for Massachusetts Rising Stars methodology). He is an active member of the Boston Bar Association. Kaviar earned his J.D. from Northeastern University School of Law and his B.A., cum laude, from Bates College. He is admitted to practice in Massachusetts.
