Energy Partners Named to 2024 Lawdragon 500 Leading Energy Lawyers List

Day Pitney Partners Sebastian M. Lombardi and Evan C. Reese, III, have been named to the 2024 Lawdragon 500 Leading Energy Lawyers list. For more information on the methodology, click here.

"It's thrilling to watch the energy market for lawyers as it transforms from a regional practice anchored in Texas and Washington, DC, to one extending globally as the definition and focus on energy transforms. Certainly, from a focus on climate change and renewables, but also from a core reality of how vast and populous the world has grown, full of billions of people dependent on transportation, electricity and water, to start with the basics," notes Katrina Dewey, Founder of Lawdragon.

Hartford-based Lombardi, recognized in the Energy Regulation and Transactions categories, assists energy clients with all aspects of transactional matters associated with federally regulated power markets and serves as lead counsel for the New England Power Pool (NEPOOL). Washington, DC-based Reese, recognized in the Energy Regulation category, advises a diverse set of clients, including investor-owned utilities, municipal electric utilities, independent power producers, renewable developers, oil/gas producers and other energy-related organizations and associations.
