Day Pitney Recognized for "Tipping the Scales" With 2023 New Partner Class by Diversity & Flexibility Alliance

Day Pitney LLP announced the firm has been recognized by the Diversity & Flexibility Alliance for "Tipping the Scales" with its 2023 New Partner Class.

The recognition is based on the Diversity & Flexibility Alliance's 2023 New Partner Report, in which out of the more than 200 law firms researched, approximately 75 firms had 50 percent or more women in their new partner class. Day Pitney's new partner class for 2023 includes six women out of eleven new partners, or 55 percent.

"We are honored to be recognized for the second year in a row for the gender diversity of our new partner class and will continue to develop our future women partners and leaders pipeline," said Theresa A. Kelly, Partner in Charge of Diversity and Inclusion at Day Pitney.

The recognition was announced at the Diversity & Flexibility Alliance's 2023 Annual Conference on November 2 in Washington, D.C.

The Diversity & Flexibility Alliance works closely with law firms, financial services firms, associations and corporations to understand their unique cultures, as well as their distinct diversity and flexibility challenges and opportunities.
