About the INTA
The International Trademark Association (INTA) is a not-for-profit membership association of more than 5,500 trademark owners and professionals, from more than 190 countries, dedicated to the support and advancement of trademarks and related intellectual property as elements of fair and effective national and international commerce.

After 130 years, INTA continues its mission to represent the trademark community, shape public policy and advance professional knowledge and development. Exhibiting at INTAs educational programs offers companies, firms, non-profits, governments and other organizations a powerful forum to introduce or promote their products, services and initiatives to an influential group of trademark professionals. Participating as an exhibitor in an INTA program is a cost-effective way to meet clients and customers, develop new relationships and demonstrate your organizations commitment to the trademark community.
