Day Pitney Relocates Stamford Office

Day Pitney LLP announced today that it has relocated its Stamford, Connecticut office from One Canterbury Green to One Stamford Plaza.

"Our new downtown location is easily accessible by car or train, provides more natural light and efficient use of space, and offers additional amenities to our clients, attorneys and staff," said Daniel L. Schwartz, managing partner of the firm's Stamford office.

The new office is located in a 16-story tower at 263 Tresser Boulevard, which is adjacent to interstate highway I-95 and easily accessible to the Metro-North train station. The property's amenities include a 1,200-space attached parking garage, fitness center and full service cafeteria.

Day Pitney is celebrating its 100th anniversary in Connecticut this year. The firm has five offices throughout the state and is the largest law firm in Connecticut. Attorneys in the Stamford office represent each of the firm's three core departments—Corporate and Business Law, Litigation and Trusts and Estates—and service individual and corporate clients across a wide range of industries, including financial services, educational institutions, energy, healthcare, insurance and reinsurance, manufacturing and real estate.
