Emerging Companies

Overview

Day Pitney provides services at every juncture of the emerging companies and venture finance ecosystem. We are a leader in venture capital transactions, representing both companies seeking financing and venture capital firms and angel investors seeking to invest.

Day Pitney represents emerging companies in every facet of their operations, from corporate structuring to venture financings to commercial contracts. This comprehensive breadth of services allows us to serve as "one-stop shopping" for entrepreneurs, allowing them to deal with legal issues in a proactive manner instead of needing to respond defensively when a potential investor or business partner raises an issue.

We are also well-versed in assisting our high-growth clients as they progress from business plan to execution and monetization. We handle liquidity events for our high-growth clients on a regular basis. Our breadth of corporate practice, from corporate formation to venture finance to mergers and acquisitions and capital markets, in conjunction with our subject matter experience across a wide range of legal issues that confront our high-growth clients, helps our clients maximize the value of their business ventures.

For entrepreneurs and startups, we offer Day Pitney Launch, a solution with resources developed specifically to help them make important early business decisions.

We view the startup ecosystem as a virtuous cycle: the entrepreneurs of today are the mentors, venture capitalists and angel investors of tomorrow. In addition to serving our entrepreneur and venture investor clients with focused and individualized support, we support the institutions that foster entrepreneurship, including research universities and other institutions of higher learning, startup incubators and accelerators, mentor networks, and angel investor groups.
