In-House Tech Atty Returns to Private Practice at Day Pitney

Day Pitney Technology Counsel Laura Land Himelstein's arrival to the firm was featured in the Law360 article, "In-House Tech Atty Returns to Private Practice at Day Pitney." She has joined Day Pitney in both the technology, telecommunications and outsourcing and the data privacy, protection and litigation practice groups, based in the firm's New York and Stamford offices.

When asked about her move to Day Pitney, Himelstein commented, "I am delighted to start this next chapter in my career at Day Pitney. The continually evolving technology landscape makes my role interesting, and I am eager to help clients navigate complex legal issues in this dynamic environment. I am especially happy to join colleagues who are similarly intrigued by new technologies and dedicated to building long term relationships to help clients manage risk and prosper."
