OVERVIEW

Emily Ferriter Russo assists clients with litigation matters pertaining to intellectual property and technology matters, including copyrights, trademarks, patents, and trade secrets. Additionally, she is a registered patent attorney and assists clients in prosecuting patents, including drafting applications and responding to office actions from the USPTO. Emily also assists clients with freedom to operate and patent infringement opinions.

Before joining Day Pitney, Emily gained extensive experience in motion practice through her two federal clerkships and two judicial internships. From 2019 to 2020, she clerked for Magistrate Judge Robert A. Richardson at the U.S. District Court for the District of Connecticut before then clerking for Judge Mae A. D'Agostino at the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of New York from 2020 to 2021. Prior to clerking for Judge D'Agostino, Emily spent a semester interning in her chambers. Emily also interned for Magistrate Judge John D. Love in the Eastern District of Texas during the summer following her first year of law school.
