Healthcare and Life Sciences

OVERVIEW

Day Pitney's interdisciplinary Healthcare and Life Sciences practice represents a broad spectrum of entities related to healthcare, pharmaceutical, biotechnology, medical device, research and technology. Many of our attorneys have backgrounds in the sciences, providing a foundation that allows us to offer informed advice and to react quickly to whatever issues may arise. We differentiate ourselves by taking the initiative to become knowledgeable about our clients' businesses and to use that knowledge to create true partnerships. By virtue of our long-standing relationships, Day Pitney attorneys have deep experience in helping our life sciences and healthcare clients achieve their goals. We can draw upon our national and international network of professional relationships to assist our clients in virtually any jurisdiction around the world.

In the rapidly evolving life sciences and healthcare industry, Day Pitney offers full, integrated services to address regulatory compliance, corporate and business, transactional, litigation, labor, employment and benefits, intellectual property, financial services, environmental, real estate, and tax needs. So whether you're in the business of biotechnology, nanotechnology, pharmaceuticals, medical devices, instrumentation and equipment, healthcare services, software, or support any of the foregoing, we can help every step of the way.
